On behalf of the Study Group for STD and Dermatological Microbiology of the Austrian Society for Dermatology and Venereology, we cordially invite you to attend and actively participate in the 16th Alpe-Danube-Adria Congress on Sexually Transmitted Diseases and Skin Infections, to be held in Vienna from 26 to 27 November 2010.

It is our great privilege to announce that this meeting will be held in honour of the 80th Birthday of Univ.Prof. Dr. Josef Söltz-Szöts, one of the founders of the Alpe-Danube-Adria Society for STD and Skin Infections in 1994. Through the 15 meetings held since, the society has promoted both a highly scientific exchange of experience and knowledge in the field of Sexually Transmitted Infections (STI), along with close bonds between its members.

The Conference will deal with the most important STI related issues currently preoccupying internationally renowned experts in the field. Prevention and control of venereal diseases have again become very important since the number of bacterial infections has increased. HIV has changed its face due to recent treatment possibilities, as might HPV after the launch of prophylactic vaccination. New data on preventive strategies, diagnostic procedures, and treatment options will be presented.

The conference venue, on the Campus of the University of Vienna, returns our guest of honour to his sources as he began his career in Dermatology and Venereology in this lecture hall. Located in the former General Hospital, it combines a historic ambiance with the special atmosphere of Christmas time; one of Vienna’s traditional Christmas Markets is held there.

We will endeavour to organize a meeting of high scientific standard with our Alpe-Danube-Adria friends in the hospitable atmosphere of our city, and very much look forward to welcoming you in Vienna for the Birthday-Meeting.
