European Workshop on Skin immune mediated inflammatory diseases (Simid)

Verona, Italy - 24th-26th April 2014

The rapid growth in the understanding of the molecular mechanisms of skin immunology, inflammatory cutaneous diseases and skin manifestations of extracutaneous disease deserves special attention. Old inflammatory skin diseases are receiving new interpretations based on the advancements on the molecular bases of innate immune responses. Common pathways in diseases affecting different organs are being elucidated. Many new treatment options are becoming available, increasing the need of forums where basic, translational and clinical research are presented together. Inflammatory and immune-mediated diseases have a great relevance to general medicine and other internal medicine disciplines, providing clues for understanding pathogenesis, as well as for diagnosis and therapy. Successful propagation of knowledge is essential to translate science and medical progress into improved patient care.

Sessions:

- Workshops
- Lectures
- Free communication sessions
- Posters

Topics:

1. Lupus erythematosus
2. Scleroderma
3. Sclerodermoid disorders
4. Vasculitis syndromes
5. Occlusive vasculopathies
6. Autoinflammatory syndromes
7. Syndromes from innate immunity dysregulation (eg, hidradenitis suppurativa, pustular psoriasis)
8. Neutrophilic dermatoses
9. Psoriasis
10. Cardio-metabolic risk of chronic inflammation
11. Common pathways in organ-specific inflammatory disorders
12. Atopic dermatitis
13. Chronic itch
14. Febrile dermatoses
15. Psoriatic arthritis
16. Autoimmune bullous diseases
17. Eosinophilic dermatoses
18. Drug reactions
19. Stratified medicine
